"It is impossible for schools to flourish without a high functioning, strategic, exceptional school board and leadership team supporting it."
—Henry Contant

Guiding Schools to Flourish
Second Edition

13 NEW CHAPTERS!

Strong Christian schools are strengthened by strong governance and leadership.

Drawing on more than thirty years of governance and leadership experience within faith-based education in Canada, the United States, and Australia, Guiding Schools to Flourish is a practical resource for Christian school boards and heads of school.

This second edition features 13 new chapters and brings together 34 concise articles on school governance and leadership, originally published in The Link, the magazine of the Society of Christian Schools in British Columbia (SCSBC). Written by SCSBC Executive Directors Henry Contant (2003–2015), Edward Noot (2014–2022), and Dave Loewen (2022–present), the articles address the real-world challenges and opportunities facing Christian school leaders and boards.

Each chapter includes three discussion questions designed to encourage thoughtful conversation, reflection, and application.

A Practical Resource for Board Development

Use Guiding Schools to Flourish to:

- Spark board discussion by incorporating a chapter into a regular board meeting agenda. Strengthen board retreats by using selected chapters as the foundation for focused governance and leadership conversations.
- Support ongoing professional development with a collection of practical topics that boards can return to throughout the year.
- Build shared understanding among board members and heads of school around the responsibilities, relationships, and practices that contribute to healthy school governance.

"Guiding Schools to Flourish has long been a trusted and essential resource for Christian school governance. In this updated edition, readers can find practical guidance for navigating boards' complex responsibilities with clarity, mission focus, and faithfulness. This is a must-read for Christian school trustees and heads of school seeking to steward their institutions wisely in a rapidly changing educational landscape."

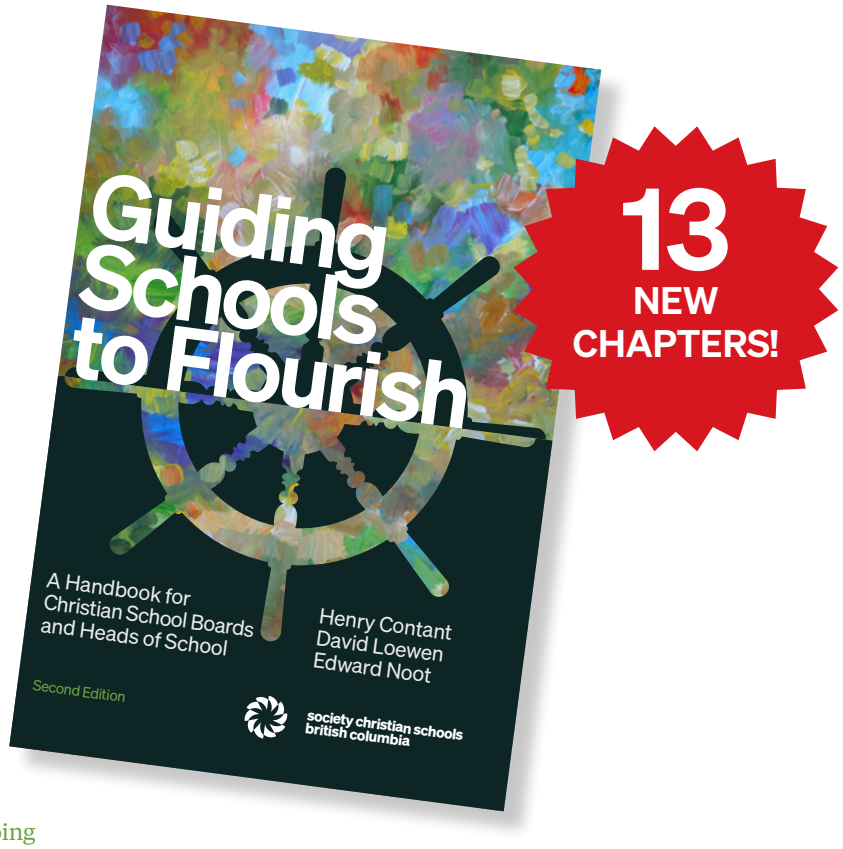

—Lynn Swaner
Cardus

"Most books on governance either tell you what boards should do, or what happens when they don't. This book does neither. Instead, it offers deep wisdom, grounded in experience and free of jargon. It helps boards move from compliance to purposeful stewardship. It's thoughtful and provocative and will remind trustees and executives why our work matters."

Guiding Schools to Flourish
Second Edition

"For Boards desiring to be strategic and to engage in ongoing professional development, Guiding Schools to Flourish provides a helpful and practical resource to utilize. It offers actionable insights that have empowered our School Board to stay strategic and mission-focused. I highly recommend it to any Board president and school leader focused on Board growth."

—Eric Burgess
Head of School, Grandville Calvin Christian Schools
Van Lunen Center Board Member

"The sustained flourishing of our Christian schools begins with mission clarity, cultural discernment, and the wise curating of relationships and interactions between boards and school leadership. In this highly practical, thoughtful and insightful book, Contant, Loewen, and Noot draw on nearly four decades of governance experience to provide the reader with timeless truths pertaining to effective governance principles, processes, and priorities for faith-based boards so they can be equipped to steer their organizations faithfully and fruitfully in an ever-changing sociocultural milieu."

—Darren Iselin
Director of Research & Innovation
Christian Schools Australia

"The guidebook for thoughtful and faithful school boards. Concise, real-life lessons from experts who are deeply committed to equipping boards with the tools they need to lead well. The first edition of Guiding Schools to Flourish has already impacted hundreds of board members. At CSI, we have used this "handbook" with many schools as a precursor to in-depth board training. Each chapter, paired with reflective questions, helps guide boards toward effective leadership and healthy governance. The added chapters in this revised edition provide even greater clarity around the board's role in strategic planning, leading change, and financial sustainability. Successful schools are led by discerning boards, making this book a must-read."

—Jennifer Thompson
Chief Operating Officer
Christian Schools International

"When seasoned veterans share their skills and knowledge and their experiences of success and failure, it is wise to pay attention. In so doing, you will receive a fresh vision for the significance of leadership and governance in Christian schools. Ultimately, this book will equip you to provide a high-quality impact on institutions and individuals immersed in an educational sector that is distinctively Christian."

—Rod Wilson
former president of Regent College
